NPower Announces New Regional Director for New Jersey

New Jersey (September 10, 2015) – NPower, a nonprofit mobilizing the tech community and providing individuals, nonprofits and schools opportunities to build tech skills and achieve their potential, announced today that they have appointed Bea Tassot as their new Regional Director for New Jersey effective immediately. Tassot, a seasoned professional with extensive business and philanthropy experience, will be a member of NPower’s leadership team and will oversee all activities in New Jersey focusing on NPower’s two flagship programs:

- Technology Service Corps: free IT and professional skills training for young adults and veterans
- The Community Corps: engaging corporate professionals to inspire youth to pursue tech careers and to help nonprofits and schools better leverage technology.

“Bea brings over 20 years of corporate expertise to NPower, complementing her affinity to serving her community. In addition to living and working in New Jersey, she has been on many prestigious local boards including, Make A Wish New Jersey, the Council of New Jersey Grantmakers, and the Girls Scouts Heart of New Jersey,” stated Stephanie Cuskley, Chief Executive Officer of NPower.

Before joining NPower, Tassot held numerous senior management positions in communications, public relations and corporate social responsibility at a variety of leading companies including AT&T, Lucent Technologies, Alcatel-Lucent and more recently Verizon. A communicator by training, Tassot joined AT&T Public Relations team in Paris, France at the beginning of her career and quickly moved to the philanthropic side of the business to become the Executive Director of the Alcatel-Lucent Foundation in the United States. At the Verizon Foundation, Tassot led International as well as Military programming, helping the company earn the 2015 No. 1 spot on the Military Times Best for Vets.

Bea Tassot, born and raised in France has a master’s degree from the Catholic Institute of Paris. She lives in Milford, New Jersey where her husband is a beekeeper and has two sons; a photographer in Paris, France and a US Marine based in Camp Pendleton, CA.

NPower’s newest office is located at the Logistics Center at New Jersey City University. Learn more about how to engage with our programs in New Jersey at <http://www.npower.org/NewJersey>.

About NPower

NPower mobilizes the tech community and provides individuals, nonprofits, and schools opportunities to build tech skills and achieve their potential. We pursue this mission via two signature programs:

- Technology Service Corps builds brighter futures for underserved young adults and veterans through free technology and professional skills training. The program includes technical classes, mentoring from business leaders, internships and career development workshops at leading corporations and nonprofits, industry-recognized certifications as well as employment and alumni services. Follow #TechnologyServiceCorps for the latest.
- The Community Corps engages tech professionals in high impact, skilled volunteering programs that inspire the next generation of science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) professionals and bridge the tech skills gap for nonprofits and schools. Follow #TheCommunityCorps for the latest.
